Palais Schönburg is a magnificent baroque jewel located in the centre of Vienna, boasting a wonderfully large and serene garden away from the hustle and bustle of the city. It was designed by the famous architect Johann Lukas von Hildebrandt (1668-1745) who is also credited with many of Vienna’s most treasured buildings.

Palais Schönburg offers limitless possibilities for any event.
Palais Schönburg was built by Johann Lukas von Hildebrandt between 1700 and 1706 on behalf of Earl Gundanker Starhemberg. In 1841 the Royal Schönburg-Hartenstein family purchased the property.

During the twentieth century, on account of its remarkable acoustics, world famous musicians including Leonard Bernstein, Nikolaus Harmoncourt, Alfred Brendel, The Vienna Concert House Quartet and many more chose to perform and record here.

The current owners, Gertner Immobilien, have extensively renovated both Palais Schönburg and its gardens. The renovations were completed in 2008. The Palais is back to its former splendour and offers exceptionally beautiful surroundings.
